

REAL JOY.

I love to think of boyhood days when I arose at four, And fetched of water from the well 8,000 pails or more. And then I'd wake the harrow up and pacify the plow, I love to lie in bed and think I needn't do it now.

I love to think of boyhood days when I the porkers fed, I need to fix their breakfast food ere yet the sky was red. I used to dry shampoo the horse and manœuvre the cow, I love to lie in bed and think I needn't do it now.

KING EDWARD'S CIGARS

At $3.20 Per Ought to Please the Society of Equity as to Price

The King of England has placed with a New York firm of tobacco brokers an order for 500 cigars, which in point of price will be slightly more than the royal smoker paid two years ago, when his bill for 1,000 cigars was $3,000.

For the 500 which are to be shipped from Havana in time to reach England at the beginning of the Easter holidays, the price will be $1,600.

The cigars were eight inches in length and at the thickest part, in the middle, one inch in diameter. They were made of the finest Vuelta Abajo tobacco, and it required the examination of thousands of leaves to obtain those that were uniform in color, uniform in size and free from large veins.

MAY SIXTH

At Louisville The Kentucky State Republican Convention Will Be Held

Committee Meeting Yesterday Was Largely Attended

LOUISVILLE, KY., February 18.—The Republican State Central Committee today issued a call for a State Convention in Louisville May 6th to select delegates to the National Convention. No resolutions regarding a candidate for President of the United States were adopted.

Under the provisions of the call delegates to the State Convention will be chosen by mass meetings of party workers in each county seat on April 25th.

The rules were so amended as to make the terms for the county organizations four years from May 6th.

The delegates to the State Convention and the members of the State Central Committee will be chosen at the same time, April 25th.

The Taft men, including State Chairman R. P. Ernst, said that there would be no resolution endorsing Taft introduced at the meeting of the Committee, and this program was adhered to. The Taft men are in the majority on the Committee, and nothing could be gained, they asserted, by the adoption of a resolution declaring for the Ohio man.

This morning State Chairman Ernst and William Marshall Bullitt met at the Seelbach and discussed the political situation here and in the state.

Mrs. Martha Power, who is ill with pneumonia at her home in Court street, is reported this morning as holding her own.

Mrs. John Downton, widow of the late John Downton, a veteran of the Civil War, is very sick with the grip at her home in Chester street.

Revival services will in all probability begin in the Third Street M. E. Church on the fourth Sunday in March. Miss Lucy Mahan, the lady evangelist of London, Ky., is to assist the Pastor in these special services. Miss Mahan is not unknown to Maysville people, she having assisted in a very successful revival in the Second M. E. Church, South, several years ago and her many friends will no doubt be glad of the opportunity to hear her preach again.

William Gillespie, better known as Colonel W. H. Fremont, aged 37, died this morning of consumption at his home in Dayton, Ky., leaving a wife and child, mother, brother, John, and sister, Mrs. James Wise, both of the latter residing here. The remains will be interred at Newport.

CLARENCE L. SALLIE.
After an illness of one week with pneumonia, C. L. Sallee died this morning at 6 o'clock at his home in East Third street.

While the death of this good man has been expected at any moment for the past three days, the announcement of his demise cast a gloom over the entire community and expressions of sincere sorrow were heard on every hand.

The deceased was born at Fernleaf June 29th, 1855. He was the son of W. T. Sallee, one of Mason county's early settlers. He attended the neighborhood schools and graduated from Bethany College, West Virginia.

He began his career as a lawyer with Colonel R. L. Nelson in Newport, and in 1882 removed to this city and formed a partnership with his brother, James H. Sallee, which continued until the death of the latter some six years ago.

About four years ago, Mr. Thomas D. Slatery was taken in as a partner, and the law firm of Sallee & Slatery was at all times represented in the Court proceedings at the Mason Bar.

He was an Oddfellow and Mason, had served several terms as a member of the Board of Education, was Secretary of the Maysville Cemetery and was an Elder of the Christian Church, in which position his good works alone as a beacon light to all within its radiance. His walk in life has been an open book, always voicing the good of humanity.

His death will create a void in this community that will require time to fill, and his influence ence for good will remain as a monument to his memory.

To mourn his irreparable loss he leaves a widow, nee Luis Mitchell, and three children, one son and two daughters, also one sister, Miss Burton Sallee of Cincinnati, and two brothers, C. K. Sallee of Missori, and E. W. Sallee of Texas.

The funeral arrangements were not completed and will be given in tomorrow's paper.

TERRILL'S BATTERY AT SHILOH.

BY DR. A. N. ELLIS.

No one who has ever seen a battery take position in all of the whirlwind and excitement of battle can ever forget it, for it is burnt into the brain and mind with all the impression of red-hot iron, there to remain as long as life shall last.

A cavalry onset is a thrilling spectacle and so is the onward sweep of a bayonet charge, yet there is something so wild and intoxicating about the terrific rush and deployment of a battery of flying artillery as to cause an old veteran to raise himself in his stirrups, forget everything else and shout until his voice is hoarse.

It was the special task of the Fourth Division of Buell's Army to open the second day's fight at Pittsburgh Landing. From early dawn until 7 o'clock we pushed the enemy vigorously, covering in that time a little over a mile of distance. Along the roads, across the fields and through the woods we pressed until the ground was dotted with our killed and wounded and nine regiments of infantry covered themselves with credit and honor. At 7:30 the line was checked as the blaze in our front became hotter and hotter and we began to find that the enemy was greatly reinforced, while a huge wave of infantry clad in Confederate gray with flaunting banners of star and bar came pouring down a ravine on our left, showed that we were in great danger of being flanked, for we were in the extreme left of our army, and forced back to the river again. In less time than it takes to tell it a battery opened fire, enfilading our line and our discomfiture became almost complete; for let it not be forgotten that we had been compelled to leave our three batteries at Savannah the day before when we made the forced march through the swamps to relieve the army of the Tennessee in its hour of defeat and threatened capture.

Slowly we began to give ground and a staff officer was sent to General Buell to ask him for help. It was not long before Mendenhall's battery of Crittenden's Division came dashing up to us and its well directed fire gave great relief, although it consisted of but four guns. Still the woods in our front kept up a more and more intense blaze and the sudden arrival of another battery showed that Confederates were still concentrating on our doomed division. The new comer was the far-famed Washington Artillery of New Orleans, the finest corps of that arm of the service in all the Southern army, and was superbly handled. General Hazen was ordered to try to capture it and did succeed in getting hold of three of its pieces, momentarily, yet he was soon forced back upon his reserves with serious loss. It was in this charge that Colonel Walter Whitaker, of the Sixth Kentucky Regiment cut the throat of a Confederate cannoner with a howie knife he had taken from a captured Texan. At 8 o'clock the tempest of shot and shell was perfectly appalling and our lines a scene of turmoil that is beyond this pen to describe. The enemy kept coming and coming, and we kept giving and giving until it looked as if our line would soon go to pieces. Our heroic General, that Crass Major of the Quarter Deck, held on with his usual bulldog tenacity, and earnestly prayed that either night or Blucher would come. Somebody did come and that was Terrill, of McCook's Division. He had just arrived in the field and had been directed by Grant to proceed with all possible haste to aid us. Hurrying into full view all at once no one was ever more welcome. Across the fields he came, the horses covered with smoke and foam and the mud flying in tangents from the rapidly whirling wheels. It was a veritable whirlwind of force and destruction, while its gallant commander sat upon his magnificent black stallion like a moving, living embodiment of the God of War!

The rail fence in front was scattered in a moment, six guns, six caissons, 72 horses. It was like the rush of a tempest, over ditches where no farmer would drive with a wagon, over logs two or three feet thick, through clumps of bushes and across gullies where no man could see his way, every horse in a gallop and every rider lashing his team and yelling like the devil.

The guns jumped three or four feet in the air, the heavy wheels striking the rocks, trees and stumps; yet not a horse slackened his pace and not a cannoner lost his seat.

Six guns, six caissons, 72 horses, 150 men, rushed like lightning for the little raise in our front, in a blinding cloud of smoke. When they swept by me it seemed a confused mob. A moment afterwards and the six guns were in position, the detached horses being hurried away to the rear, while the ammunition boxes were being opened and the stentorian tones of our division commander rising loud and clear over the roar of battle, bade us give "the enemy another volley and then fall back and support the guns."

A minute later, and boom! boom! went the guns and jets of fire jumped down and scorched the green trees under which we only a short time before had fought and despaired. Our shattered line lay flat on the ground and we began to think that perhaps the God of battle had not forgotten us. Oh, how we did admire the new comers!

Every one of them looked like a famous hero from the far off days of song and story. It was Battery H of the Fifth Regulars, under the leadership of one of the best and bravest soldiers in our army. Four 12-pounder Napoleons and two 10-pounder Parrots and every man a perfect machine. Bullets splashed mud into their faces yet they did not wince; the air was dark with hurtling missiles yet they did not dodge. A sponger at one of the guns fell dead from a bullet in his head, yet another took his place. The dead man was only a little cog in the mighty machine; he was not missed. When our general told us to fall back and support the guns, the enemy seeing the movement and not knowing of our new arrival, thought we were retreating and came pouring out of the fields and across the ravine like an avalanche, thinking that victory was in their grasp. In the twinkling of an eye (every gun was using short fuse-shells) the very earth seemed to shake and tremble while the roar shut out all sounds from the battle afar off. The shells went shrieking into the swamps a mile away and tore great gaps and long lanes in the rapidly advancing foe, tearing and mangling the men beyond all recognition. It was a tornado howling through the trees and open spaces followed by billows of fire. I wondered how men could live through it, yet they did live through it—men formed in the image of God and showing forth in their handsome faces and forms all of his wonderful handiwork. The enemy's line seemed to be stunned and halted for a moment, but it was plain to be seen that they did not intend to cease their onward movement and go back. They saw our battery and prepared to make it their own. Through the fire and smoke I saw them reforming their lines and bringing up their reserves. I heard their shouts and yells as they made ready for the onward charge, determined and desperate enough to bathe their bayonets in the flame of our guns. We all made ready for the awful crisis at hand and soon the shells were changed for grape and canister. On, came that living wall and when so close that we could almost see the whites of their eyes, five thousand muskets blended their roar with the thunder of the cannon and the line in our front ebbed away like a great wave, while the old Fourth Division sent up the first shout of victory that ever went up from the Army of the Cumberland. How that cheer still lingers in my brain, while tears blind my eyes when I think of the dead men and wounded men that lay all over the town, trampled and war-swept field; men's legs were not shot through but torn off; heads were torn from bodies and bodies cut in two. Living men were picked up bodily from their feet and thrown away off down the hill and across the fields, a blackened and bloody mass. The grape and canister had mowed the ground like a swath and piled the heaps of the dead on top of each other. It seemed like a wave of blood had dashed up against my boyish feet. How true it is that "War is Hell." It is a little bit of a word—there are only three letters in it—yet it is the most terrible word in the English language. God grant that we may never have any more strife in our Heaven-favored land and that my boy and your boy, may never carry a musket and know of the grim terrors of the battlefield. Capt. Terrill was made a Brigadier General for his gallantry at Shiloh and in just six months laid down his heroic life on the battlefield of Perryville. A piece of a shell tore away one of his lungs and with his last breath he moaned and cried about the dear good wife he had left behind. He was one of the very few Southern officers who stood by the Flag. General Thomas was another and those two were from the same county in old Virginia.

The Lexington Board of Health has ordered a campaign of general vaccination. In a letter from Rev. G. W. Bunton, Pastor of the Third Street M. E. Church, who is now at Dahlgren, Ill., assisting in revival services, he states that they are having the most successful meeting that has been held in that place in twenty years. To date there have been eighty conversions and a large number of requests for prayers. Rev. Bunton is expected to arrive home tomorrow and will probably conduct prayer service at the Third Street Church tomorrow evening.

$100 Reward, $100. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disreputable disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

STILL RISING

Gage Marks 48.4 Here and More Water Expected

Last evening the river was rising slowly with 47 feet on the gage mark and with favorable weather 48 feet was the limit set for the present rise. The heavy fall of snow and the warning issued by the weather bureau yesterday afternoon of a storm over the watershed of the Ohio river, will undoubtedly have the effect of accentuating flood conditions and another rise of water here is by no means improbable. Fifty-two feet will inundate the houses on Front street in Aberdeen as well as many places in the East and West Ends of this city. The water has already encroached on the streetcar track under the C. and O. Bridge in Bridge street and is now threatening Beechwood Park. The river is receding at Pittsburgh and as far down as Wheeling, it is rising at Parkersburg on down and at this point at 8 o'clock this morning the gage mark shows 48.4 and rising. The altitude of the present rise depends entirely on weather conditions.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

Do Not Endanger Life When a Maysville Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them? Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys help they need to perform their work. If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney disease cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Maysville testimony: Mrs. E. Bridges, of 206 West Third street, Maysville, Ky., says: In March, 1900, I gave a testimonial recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. I had been troubled with a lame back and weak kidneys from girlhood and in my efforts to find a cure tried many different remedies, but without benefit until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at J. Jas. Wood & Son's Drugstore. They went right to the cause of the trouble and as a result brought relief that led me to testify in their favor. I have never been without Doan's Kidney Pills in the house since. Every spring I take a box whether symptoms of kidney trouble are apparent or not, and in this way keep my kidneys in good condition.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box; Foreign: Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take as other.

OCCUPATION FOR "REAL GENT"

Ignorant Englishman Could Not Understand Where Laugh Came In.

When Jack McAuliffe, the retired lightweight champion, was in England a few years ago he met Jumper Howe, a noted pugilist of Newcastle. Jack and Jumper became fast friends and in a burst of confidence Howe told McAuliffe one day that he could neither read nor write. He also asked Jack to read for him a letter he had just received from a sweetheart. McAuliffe readily consented to read the love note and was getting interested when Howe exclaimed: "I say, Jack, old up there! Yer don't care to know just what she writes, does yer?" "No, it's of no interest to me, Jumper," replied McAuliffe, with a yawn. "Well, then, old pal, just put yer fingers in yer bloomin' ears so yer won't hear it!" McAuliffe laughed so much at this silly talk that Howe, red hot, grabbed the letter, saying: "You bleedin' Americans are great kidders, aren't yer? I'll get some Englishman to read, who'll plug up his bloomin' ears like a real gent!" McAuliffe tried to explain, but it was of no use.

Paper Foe to Rheumatism.

Rheumatism being such a universal complaint, it is hardly to be wondered at that there exists a paper entirely for the benefit of rheumatic sufferers. This is published in Germany, and in it rheumatic patients discuss their symptoms and tell of anything that has proved a relief to their pains, while medical men contribute articles to it on the different phases, symptoms and species of rheumatism and the progress which the cure of rheumatism is steadily making. Needless to say, most rheumatic patients in Germany make a point of seeing this strange publication.

Why Turbines Shake.

Passengers of the new turbine steamers often express disappointment and surprise to find that the vibration experienced on ocean-going vessels has not been entirely eliminated. As a matter of fact, the vibration, so far as it relates to the engines, has been suppressed and the conditions greatly improved, for there is a certain amount of vibration resulting from the passage of the propellers through the water, and this never will be overcome so long as propellers are used.

Disturbed the Coons.

In tearing down an old farmhouse in northern Michigan the other day the men toppled down a chimney that had not been in use for 30 years, and two coons were killed by the bricks and five others got away.

The cunning animals had seen that the chimney was a safe retreat and they had been making a lair of it for years and years. They reached the chimney by climbing a tree and then jumping to the roof of the house.

STATE FUNERAL

Great Honors Paid the Remains of Representative Virgil McKnight

Laid in State in Capital Rotunda and Special Train to Louisville

The interment of the remains of the late Representative Virgil McKnight of Mason county will occur this morning at 11 o'clock in Cave Hill Cemetery at Louisville.

Mr. McKnight's body was accorded all the honors ever paid to a truly great statesman and it might be remarked that no Mayavillian ever had such extensive obsequies.

His remains lay in state in the old Capitol and the L. and N. Railroad furnished a special train to convey his body to Louisville where it remained in an undertaking establishment until taken to the Cemetery.

The religious services in the rotunda of the Capitol yesterday morning were brief and conducted by Rev. M. B. Adams of the Baptist Church. A Presbyterian minister conducted the last services at the grave.

Four Senators and four Representatives acted as active pallbearers.

HIS SUCCESSOR.

Speaker Gooch will at once call a special election in Mason county to elect a successor to the dead Representative.

On the Republican side the name of Mr. Elijah T. Kirk is mentioned as a candidate, while Judge G. S. Wall may make the race as the Democratic candidate.

COAL COMING

From Pittsburgh Today--Several Million Bushels En Route to New Orleans

The Pittsburgh Coal Combine will start 10 towboats South today if the weather is favorable with 200 barges containing 5,000,000 bushels.

The shipments at this time are made possible by high river stages. Evidence of the flood is fast disappearing and restoration of normal conditions is looked for by this afternoon.

Gage marks 48.5 and rising.

No more coal will be shipped from Pittsburgh until the river gets back into its banks.

The Queen City is booking a big list of passengers for her Mardi Gras trip this month.

The Joe B. Williams is to take South from Louisville a tow consisting of 33 coalboats, 4 barges and a barge of steel.

The Sprague has just gotten back to Louisville from her big trip to New Orleans, and will probably be sent South again when another tow can be made up for her.

The annual report of United States Supervising Inspector General Uhler, of the steamboat inspection service, shows 28,040 licenses issued to all grades of officers. The total loss of life from various causes was 506, of which 220 victims were themselves responsible, 63 were suicides, leaving 223 chargeable to accidents, collisions and foundering, and 28,000 motorboats are reported operating on inland waters.

The Court of Appeals of Missouri has declared that Missouri has jurisdiction to the Tennessee side of the Mississippi, and much interest is manifested in the decision, says The Memphis News-Scimitar. It grew out of the case of Joseph and Mary Hayes, who were charged with selling liquor on a boat in interstate service. Tennessee laws mark jurisdiction to the middle of the Mississippi. Defendants claimed that they were on the Tennessee side when the alleged Missouri local-option violation occurred.

Last Words---Pretty Tribute From a Newspaper Critic

Courier-Journal.

"I want to say that I have done what I believed to be right while in Frankfort at this session."

Such are reported as among the last words of Virgil McKnight as he lay on his deathbed. He could have written no better epitaph for himself.

It means something for a member of the General Assembly to be able to say that it means much for one facing such conditions as Virgil McKnight faced to be able to say it.
